1. All staff involved in the admissions process have undertaken data protection training and are required to observe the relevant regulations and principles of confidentiality and data protection.
2. Any member of staff who has a personal connection with or other interest in an individual applicant is required to declare that interest to his or her line manager who will determine how the application is to be considered.
3. Representations on behalf of candidates made other than in the application will be given such weight, if any, as is appropriate under the Undergraduate Admissions Policy. Any perceived improper pressure from any person, whether employed by the University or not, will be disregarded and reported to the Admissions Manager in the first instance.
